

Wilson Williams Jr ★★★★★

Born and raised on the East coast of Florida, Wilson has always had a passion for imaginary worlds and creatures. Luckily his pens, pencils and paintbrushes have given him the means to catalog his journeys to these magical places. According to his Mother, who would know best, Wilson has been drawing fervently from the moment he could hold a crayon in his hand. The right hand to be exact. His earliest interests started in comic books, Saturday morning cartoons and the kids section of the local public library. While some things have evolved since then his enthusiasm and youthful spirit still remains.

In high-school Wilson decided to pursue Art as his life long career. He attended Ringling School of Art and Design where he received his Bachelors of Fine Arts in Illustration. He's been a successful commercial artist and designer for the past twelve years. And he still dedicates a considerable amount of time to comic books, cartoons and the local public library.
